Description

Foncine-le-Haut is well-known as a village highly centred around nature, where the inhabitants take their time living to the rhythm of each season. All of these assets, and the many leisure possibilities - hikes and visits of local natural sites - attract a wide audience which boosts the economy.

The Val de Saine campsite also minds its “eco-attitude”: for example, its Chalets des Isles were built using municipal wood and motor vehicle traffic is largely limited there.
