Description

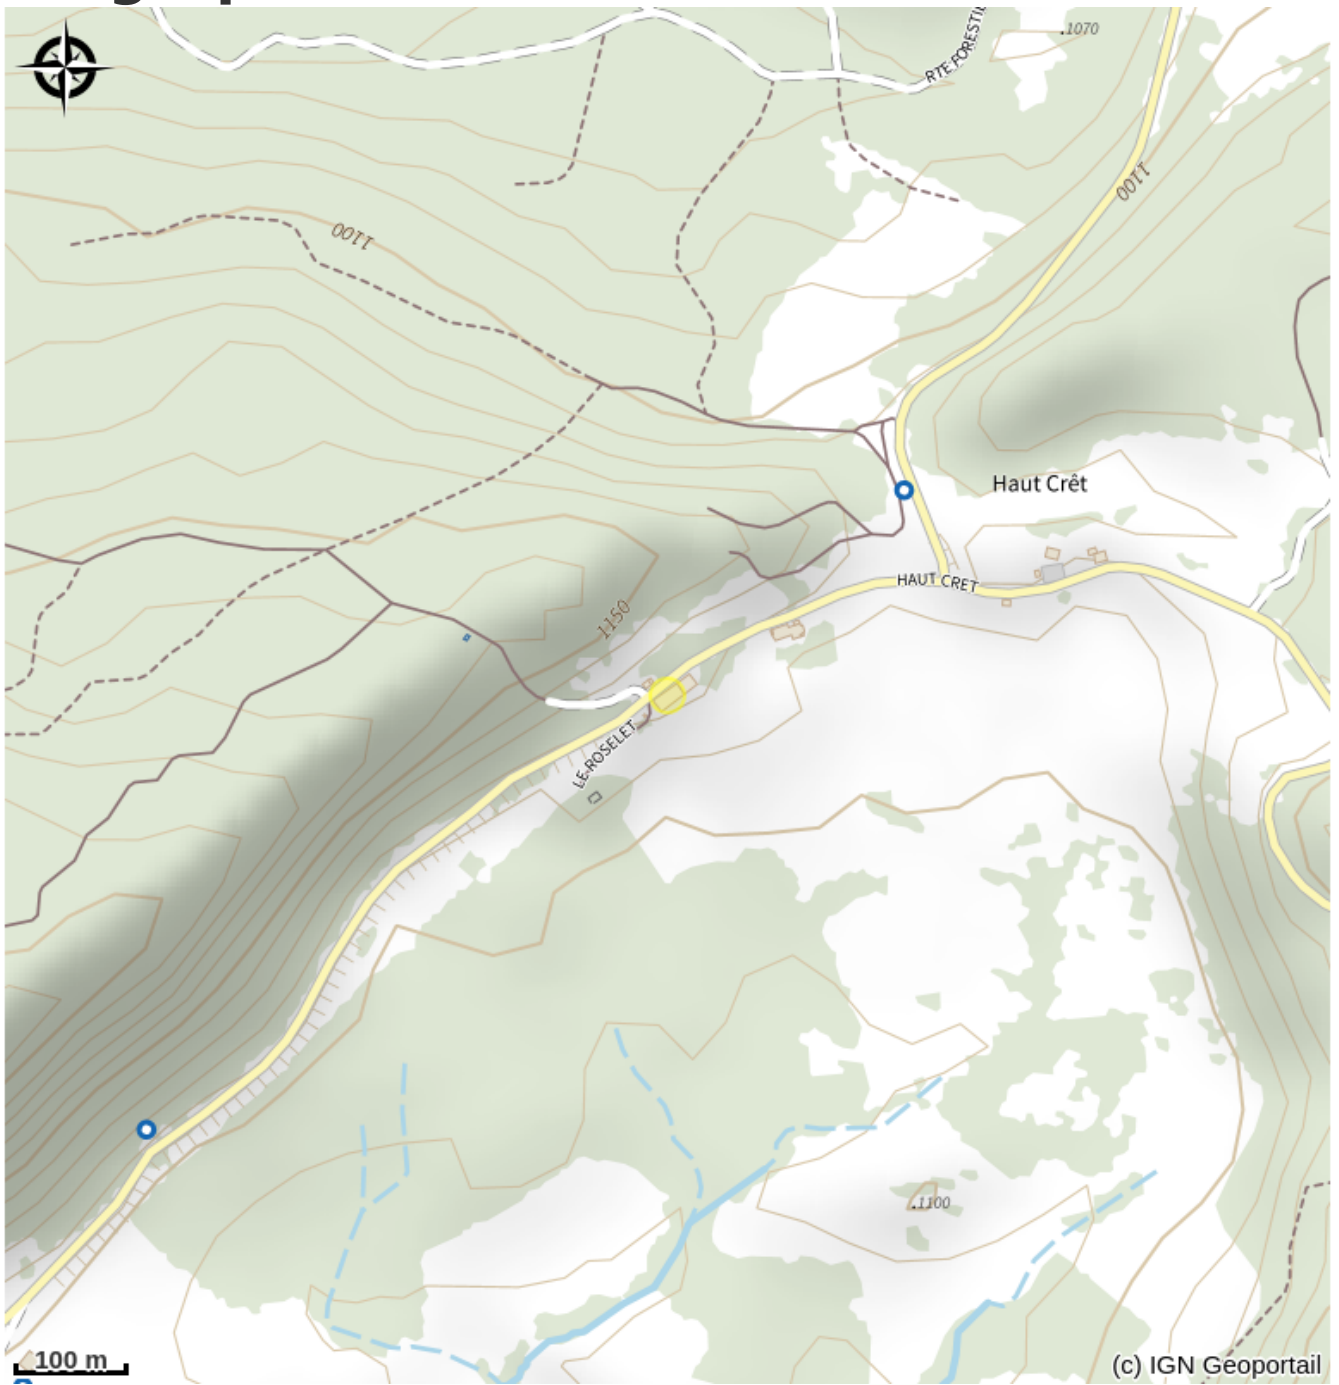

Le Roselet is an old farm located in the Tressus combe in Haut-Crêt. The accommodation is located in the old renovated wood shelter.

The gîte was renovated using natural materials and renewable energies were installed (solar panels, rainwater retrieval, pellet heating, etc.).

Françoise, the owner, lives in the adjoining house and is on-site to provide information on the tourist activities and walks in the area.

Close by, in the village of Lamoura, you can go cross-country or alpine skiing. The lapidary museum is in the same town and will teach you about this particular craft specific to the region. In the summer, take advantage of the lake and the many summer activities available in the area.
